Hoffa's Prison Job Issuing Clothes

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — How is James R. Hoffa taking prison life after seven weeks in a federal penitentiary?

Daylight Time Loss Set Back

LANSING (AP) — The State Court of Appeals today handed a setback—but only a temporary one—to opponents of Daylight Savings Time for Michigan.

The court dismissed as premature a suit by the Michigan Farm Bureau and other groups opposing fast time which asked the court to order Michigan election officials not to accept petitions calling for a referendum on the question.

"We felt that until these people filed these petitions, there was nothing for us to consider," said Presiding Judge Thomas J. Kavanagh.

What is the convict-president of the 1.8-million-member Teamsters Union doing as No. 33298?

Only his family and lawyers can visit Hoffa. Catching a glimpse of this labor titan at prison work is just as elusive.

Warden Jacob J. Parker officially declines comment on Hoffa.

In jail, everyone physically able works a 40-hour week. Hoffa is now in the clothing room—sorting, stacking and issuing clothing to fellow inmates. Each prisoner gets four sets of clothing within a week of arrival.

Hoffa also takes in dirty laundry, and occasionally sews up mattress covers to replace ripped ones.

His prison job is temporarily classified as general maintenance, requiring no special skills. A shortage of classification case workers has delayed a permanent assignment.

Does Hoffa, when he returns to the privacy of his cell at night, still run his union?

Absolutely not, says the warden, emphasizing, "Men can't conduct outside business here."

But one ex-convict—whom Parker admitted knew the ropes—says smart men, like Hoffa, can do almost anything they want through their attorney who has visiting privileges at least three days a week.

"When they say Hoffa can't do any business, that's absurd," says the former inmate. "He'll do it through his lawyers."

This could mean that Hoffa slipped out some suggestions concerning the nationwide Teamsters negotiations for a new contract.

Hoffa is still getting part of international head of the independent union in the form of a $10,000 annual payment to his wife.

All he can spend though in the prison commissary is $15 a month. As a new inmate, in his job, he earns the minimum of $5.60 a month, or 14 cents an hour. If he moves to better jobs, his pay could increase to as much as $25 a month.

Hoffa, 54, still is undergoing some physical, psychological and ability tests for final classification.

Hoffa has received hundreds of letters since his March 7 arrival, reportedly more than any other inmate since the prison opened in 1932. Many bear such envelope messages as "To a great guy," and "Keep fighting."

Who does Hoffa pal around with?

"There are eight former union officials at Lewisburg now," says an ex-convict, "and he'll be mixing with them."

Water seeks its own level. And the labor leaders have their own hierarchy in jail.

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov plummeted to death from a height of more than four miles when his spacecraft Soyuz 1 tried to land today, the government announced.

Landing Mishap Fatal As Chute Lines Tangle

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov plummeted to death from a height of more than four miles when his spacecraft Soyuz 1 tried to land today, the government announced.

It was the first time either of the two space powers has reported the death of an astronaut on an operation.

Moscow radio said ropes of the parachute meant to ease the landing twisted, and the ship hit with great force, killing the 40-year-old veteran cosmonaut.

Tass news agency said the spacecraft had passed safely through the most difficult braking stretch in the dense layer of the atmosphere.

Straps Twisted

"However, when the main cupola of the parachute opened at an altitude of seven kilometers—4.3 miles—the straps of the parachute, according to preliminary reports, got twisted and the spacecraft descended at a great speed which resulted in Komarov's death," Tass added.

Komarov, 40, on his second space venture, rode Soyuz into orbit Sunday amid speculation another would be sent up for an attempt to rendezvous.

The first firm intimation that something might have gone wrong came when the government newspaper Izvestia delayed its Monday evening edition without explanation.

The official announcement said Komarov had completed all missions successfully before the accident.

Hero's Burial

He will be given a hero's burial in Red Square.

Komarov's death raised speculation whether the Soviet race to the moon with the United States would be hampered.

The fiery death of three U.S. astronauts in an Apollo space capsule on the launching pad of Cape Kennedy Jan. 27 has set back the American program.

The veteran Komarov, a colonel, was the pilot of the Voskhod 1, the first three-man spacecraft to go aloft in October 1964. He was the first Russian to go into space twice.

During a television broadcast the screen was occupied by a portrait — trimmed in black — of the cosmonaut in uniform.

This was the same photograph which — without the black trim — was carried in special editions of Soviet newspapers Sunday when the Soyuz flight was hailed as a triumph.

Time Not Given

Soviet news media said the cosmonaut died today but did not give the exact time of the accident nor where this had taken place.

It had been predicted in unconfirmed reports that the Soyuz 1 flight would last up to a week. The death announcements indicated it was meant to end today and everything went all right until the last moments.

There had been speculation that a linkup of Komarov with a second spacecraft would be a step toward an orbiting space platform that eventually would be used to rocket a manned capsule to the moon.

Komarov was awarded posthumously the title of hero of the Soviet Union with gold star, the country's highest award. The announcement said a statue in his honor will be erected.

Mourning Music

After approximately 10-minute broadcasts, the radio played mourning music and the television screen showed the Soviet space monument and flag.

Tass said the official announcement was made "with great sorrow" by the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet and the Council of Ministers.

It referred to Komarov as "one of the first space explorers and talented tester of spacecrafts, member of the Communist party, flier-cosmonaut and hero of the Soviet Union."

Tass said the Central Committee, the Presidium and the Council of Ministers "have expressed deep condolences to the family of the deceased."

Two Children

He and his wife had two children, a 15-year-old son and a 9-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Komarov said earlier her husband had not told her where he was going when he left for his last space flight. She

Talks Fail; National Rail Tieup Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is on the verge of a nationwide railroad strike because "collective bargaining has fallen flat on its face," say the secretaries of labor and transportation.

The warning from Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd came Sunday after a special mediation board in the contract dispute between railroad management and six shopcraft unions announced "a complete impasse" in negotiations.

The breakdown came only one day after President Johnson issued "one final appeal" to the parties to settle.

The threatened strike could begin May 3, expiration date of a special congressional provision which had moved back an earlier April 13 strike deadline.

Charles Fahy, chairman of the three-man mediation board, said both sides have rejected the board's settlement recommendation.

The unions want a 6.5 per cent wage increase, management has offered 5 per cent and the board recommended 6 per cent. The workers now average $2.90 an hour. Earlier the railroads had accepted the board proposal.

Wirtz and Boyd said in a statement "It is a shame for democracy to be put on trial over so small a disagreement." Johnson said Saturday "the matter is one of dollars and cents alone, and the real differences between the parties are not great."

But the railroad's chief negotiator, J. E. Wolfe, said there were "matters of principle" involved and that Johnson had been misled.

Fahy said after separate meetings, joint meetings with mediators and a joint session without mediators that "the parties are on call."

Wirtz and Boyd said, "We will keep trying to find the answer to this case but there should be no illusions about the critical seriousness of the prospects."

The unions represent 137,000 workers.

Minister Makes Pulpit Plea For Cavanagh Recall

DETROIT (AP) — Taking his text, "a city full of violence," the Rev. E. T. Bernthal of Epiphany Lutheran Church carried through Sunday on his plan to call from the pulpit for the recall of Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

He also called for the resignation of Police Commissioner Ray Girardin.

The text comes from the "Book of Ezekiel," and the Rev. Mr. Bernthal urged members of his congregation at two services to "do your Christian duty" and seek recall of Cavanagh and resignation of Girardin.

The minister charged Cavanagh and Girardin had "failed in their duty" to abate crime in the streets.

The 69-year-old Rev. Mr. Bernthal announced Friday, following the fatal stabbing of a 15-year-old high school bandman outside Cobo Hall, Detroit's convention center, that he had reached the "agonizing" decision to urge the mayor's ouster in Sunday sermons.

The fatal stabbing of George Overman Jr., son of a Detroit policeman, came in the wake of six other assaults in the area within eight days. Witnesses told police they saw two young Negroes run from the stabbing scene.

There was picketing of the minister's church as he spoke, and among those attending the late morning service was Councilwoman Mary V. Beck, who has announced her own campaign to recall Cavanagh.

Kiesinger Gets U.S. Visit Bid

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Johnson today expressed America's sorrow at the death of former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and invited Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger to visit him at Christmas or any other time.

The President told reporters afterward that he and Kiesinger had reviewed recent contacts between American and West German officials, including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's recent trip.

He added that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler would be ready to talk with West German leaders.

"I wanted to assure the new government that our people would be available at their request," he said.

Kiesinger has been chancellor since Dec. 1. He has not since visited the United States.

New Sweep Of Cong's Supply Areas Started

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force and Navy planes made their first attack of the Vietnam war today on MIG jet airfields in North Vietnam, while some 20,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops made a massive assault on three Communist jungle redoubts in War Zone C.

A U.S. command spokesman said U.S. Air Force F4C Phantom jets hit one North Vietnamese airfield at Hsa Lac, 19 miles west of Hanoi, while Navy A4s and A6s hit a second jet field at Kep, 37 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Pilots reported both missions were successful, U.S. headquarters said, but there was no report of the damage.

Elsewhere in the ground war, U.S. Marine and Army infantrymen clashed repeatedly with scattered enemy forces in South Vietnam's threatened northern provinces. The U.S. command reported a total of 91 enemy dead.

In the Communist C Zone north of Saigon, helicopter-borne troops fanned out through the bomb-scarred, defoliated countryside behind thick smoke screens laid by other helicopters.

As the advancing ground troops uncovered supply caches and stubborn guerrillas, heavy tanks of three armored squadrons crashed wide lanes in the jungle and moved down clearings for future helicopter assaults.

Along Saigon River

The operation, named Manhattan, put about four brigades of American troops and a regiment of Vietnamese into the field, plus supporting armor, artillery and aviation battalions.

The American units were deployed on both sides of the Saigon River about 30 miles northwest of Saigon, with troops from the 25th Division along the southern sector and 1st Infantry Division troops on the north.

Three Vietnamese battalions were moving overland north-west from Ben Cat through the Ben Sue region cleared in January during Operation Cedar Falls.

Contact was reported light, though some U.S. tanks blew up on land mines, sniper fire was encountered and a Vietnamese unit engaged a small enemy force outside Ben Cat.

Early Teamster Vote Against OK On Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — In this morning had 16,000 voting against the contract and 10,000 in favor of acceptance.

If ratified, the three-year contract would affect 450,000 drivers and other employees of 12,000 trucking firms.

Even as the voting was going on, a five-association of truckers in the Chicago area brought a lawsuit against the Teamsters because of scattered strikes which they said made it impossible to continue operations.

The Chicago employers said the union was trying to pressure the city into giving a raise higher than that of a approximately 70 per cent in over three years in the proposed national contract.

Teamster Local 1 in the Chicago area are reading to be bound by the national contract.

A spot check and a vote that most trucking firms in the five-association stayed and a national labor union fund night, the scheduled starting time for the ballot.

In Washington, a spokesman for Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said the Labor Department would have no comment on the lockout "until we get more details."

There was no immediate indication from the union's top officers, spokesmen for the employers or federal officials as to what the next step would be if the national contract were rejected.

Sponsored by the U.P. Crafts Council (UPCC), this year's conference theme is "Creative Use of Copper in U.P. Crafts."

"The purpose of the conference is to stimulate participation in the creative arts here in the Upper Peninsula," said Mrs. Milton Scherer, president of the UPCC. "We also hope to improve promotion and develop better marketing procedures by bringing craftsmen and gift shop owners and buyers together."

Registration and exhibit preparation will begin at 8 a.m. with the first general session slated for 10 a.m. in the Memorial Union Building. Presiding will be Mrs. Scherer and opening remarks will be given by Mrs. Brookway Myers, president of the Copper Country Associated Artists.

Harkonen To Talk
Paul Harkonen, marketing specialist for UPCCAP, will present a survey of U.P. crafts at 10:15 a.m. His presentation will be followed by a discussion of the "Function of the Michigan Council of Arts in the U.P." by Fletcher Johnston, manager of the Keweenaw Playhouse.

Michael Warium of the University of Wisconsin will head a panel discussion at 11 a.m. on the "Marketing of Crafts." Panel members include Mrs. Marian Gilles, Houghton; Mrs. Eino Miller, Copper Harbor; and Harkonen.

The afternoon session will feature an evaluation of individual crafts and exhibits by a team of Northern Michigan University consultants: Marvin and Monica Zehnder, Owen Shapiro, and Curtis Stephens.

This team of consultants will also summarize the conference and present a panel discussion of "Design for the Creative Crafts."

Demonstrations of copper tooling and enameling will be given by members of the Copper Country Associated Artists. Pat Virch will demonstrate the art of rosemetal using copper powder in early American designs.

Bank Officers And Staff See Computer Work

Officers and staff members of the Northern Michigan National Bank of Escanaba went to the Kellogg Citizens National Bank in Green Bay on Saturday in a charter bus to see computer processing of a day's business of the local bank in an hour. The process normally takes all day with noncomputer methods.

There were 22 in the group headed by Matt Smith, executive vice president, including all but four members of the bank's staff.

"We plan," Smith told his staff "to be one of the most computerized banks north of Chicago." The data processing system being developed serves the bank in Escanaba and also its branches in Rapid River and Bark River.

Ruppe Asking Post Office For Christmas

Congressman Phil Ruppe today asked the Post Office Department to re-establish the post office in Christmas, Mich. on a $100 per month basis. The Post Office Department, after first deciding to close the branch in Christmas, has consented — at the congressman's urging — to reopen the branch on a $1 per year basis.

"For the last three months that the post office was open last year, the Post Office Department saw fit to pay $100 per month for its operation. Now, they seem to want the people of the village to subsidize the entire operation."

The people of the village have agreed that the post office can be operated efficiently at $100 a month, we can put a million spent each year to keep the mails moving," Ruppe said. "I don't think it is too much to ask that, for $100 a month, we can put a little spirit into Christmas."

With the thought that with her smile she would try to make people happy.

Better Than Flowers

Prentiss M. Brown was honored on Tuesday night of last week at a dinner at the Sheraton-Cadillac in Detroit in which Walker L. Cislir, board chairman of Detroit Edison Co., delivered the annual Newcomen address.

It was an evening of giants. Cislir is the greatest mover in Michigan, so great that he takes even the Upper Peninsula under his wing. The vision of most Detroit enterprisers doesn't go beyond the Straits of Mackinac and Cislir's Detroit Edison Co. has no operation in the Upper Peninsula. He is a truly distinguished man with a vision that goes far beyond his company and his state, even beyond his country; and, perhaps even more impressive, beyond his own time.

He has an engineer's eye for the possible and a wise man's hopes for the desirable and he merges the two into one of the most useful lives in the history of Michigan. He is constantly organizing good works and he was at a high point of a historically distinguished career when he cited his old friend and associate, Prentiss Brown, as the honoree of the Michigan Committee in American Newcomen, for the building of the Mackinac Bridge.

(Thomas Newcomen, a British blacksmith, invented the steam engine and the Newcomen Societies honor major contributions to engineering and technology.)

Cislir's address told of the coming of the Brown family to the Straits of Mackinac and of the birth of their son Prentiss and of his life at St. Ignace, the crossroads of the Great Lakes, where Lakes Michigan and Huron join near the confluence of Superior. Michigan came to statehood in 1837 composed of two peninsulas separated by the Straits of Mackinac, a 5-mile-wide joining of Huron and Michigan waters.

The Strait makes Michigan the only mainland state of the 50 which is in two pieces. The geographical separation has caused other separatism which has been enormously hurtful to the Upper Peninsula. There have been oceans and mountains of talk about making the two Michigans into one, but although there were dreams and talk and plans for ties for a century, there were no physical ties until Prentiss Brown built the Mackinac Bridge.

It is a historic achievement of great stature, as big as the five-mile-long bridge itself. It took great legislative skill, great financial skill, and undefeatable perseverance to keep the project alive in the face of great adversity, perversion and trial, the kind of faith — exercised in the realm of government and of economics — which we usually associate with spiritual matters.

Prentiss Brown didn't build the bridge himself, of course; Walker Cislir made that clear and Prentiss Brown himself has always been first to credit all the hundreds and hundreds of persons who have helped the project, especially including the members of the Mackinac Bridge Authority which Brown has headed since it was organized. It built the bridge, and it, in turn, had many helpers.

But when we think of British victory at Waterloo we think of Wellington, not the brave foot soldiers who fought the battle, and when we think of the canal at Panama we think of Colonel Goethals, who organized its completion. And when we think of the Mackinac Bridge we think of Prentiss M. Brown and very properly so, because he headed the team that organized its construction and gave it inspired and inspiring leadership.

Cislir pointed out that despite a very distinguished career in the law; he was a member of the State Board of Law Examiners; in government, he was a congressman and a U. S. Senator and director of the Office of Price Administration (and a chief author of defeat of President Roosevelt's packing of the U. S. Supreme Court) and business; he was chairman of the board of Detroit Edison Co., he himself regards his work on the bridge with the greatest satisfaction.

He seems to have been almost fated for this role. His impressive talents were honored by an active career in the law, government and industry so that when the great trial of will to bridge the Michigans came, he was equal to the task.

The bridge stands there today, uniting Michigan and inspiring all who see it to believe that men can perform their dreams if they can inspire organization of skills and resources in great causes.

Among the hundreds honoring Mr. and Mrs. Brown at the Detroit dinner was a large delegation from the Upper Peninsula. It included: Dr. Edgar L. Harden, Sam M. Cohodas, Ellwood Mattson and William Wilson, Marquette; John Walbridge, Richard Rinehart, Escanaba; John Christensen, L. E. Jones, Menominee; Frank Hoholik, Manistique; Richard Burnett, Paul Willson, Ted Caffey, Dr. Kenneth Shoultice, Sault Ste. Marie; Donald Davison, Iron River; Harold Dettman, Orlando Doyle, James Brown, Prentiss M. Brown, Jr., Benson Wiggins, Jr., Lawrence Rubin, St. Ignace; Dr. Douglas Cornell, Mackinac Island; Dr. Eric Bourdo, L'Anse; William Nicholls, Houghton; Robert Sales and William Zagelmeier, Newberry.

Delta Delinquency Inquiry Dismays

Charles L. Tooman of the Bay de Noc Community College faculty was one of the conferees on juvenile delinquency in the Escanaba Area called together by Supt. Luther Barrett of the Escanaba Area School District at the high school on Apr. 6. He wrote the following letter to Barrett.

Retrospectively speaking, several thoughts have mingled in my mind regarding the Thursday evening meeting. First, congratulations for taking the initiative in calling such a meeting; it was long overdue. Coming here from Pittsburgh the problems of the City of Escanaba seem in many ways rather minute, and admittedly, one of the first things to impress me about Escanaba was its absence of juvenile delinquency (or at least the kind I had been accustomed to). After nine months in this city I have learned that, although I still have some tendency to view many things here as an outsider, observation can reveal many interesting things. All is not perfect, or, in some cases, not good.

Among the many interesting statements occurring during Thursday's meeting was one to the effect that Escanaba has no juvenile delinquency problem. Such a statement, it would seem, is the result of either ignorance or a refusal to face the facts. To state that there is no problem is to state in the same breath that there is no need for officers of either the laws or the courts which deal with such problems. It is, more precisely, a statement that we have set up those offices and must hear the creaking of their machinery only to satisfy our own concepts of government. I was dismayed to hear the chief of police, working with hands tied, make such a comment; I was shocked to hear an endorsement of such a statement coming from the Probate Court.

Among the possible solutions stated during the evening was one that the problem may be solved by bringing those responsible into the court (or other meeting place) for either a weekly or monthly meeting and by bringing the full "power, prestige, and influence of the court, the police, the school, the church and the state" to bear. This is, if you will permit, a very strong naive. As I pointed out in the meeting, the offenders are not likely to be shown that they are causing a problem within the community. I think there are two basic reasons for this:

1. In the first place these people have no concept of the term "community responsibility." They could not care less what happens in or even to the City of Escanaba or the County of Delta or the State of Michigan. Indeed — can there be a good reason stated as to why they should?

2. Next, consider who is going to be there to influence them: The chief of police — who has at one time or another arrested either the offenders or their parents or both, or has at least had occasional "run-ins" with them; the school — which either has or presently does discipline them at least once or twice a week, and has probably expelled them occasionally (all through the use of force); the court — which has probably had both the offender and his relatives and acquaintances appear previously (and if the truth were known, subsequently); the state — from which he has already learned that life is a matter of the survival of the fittest; the church — which suffers him to come into it as long as he wears acceptable clothing, does not have dirty hands or face, but does come from an acceptable income bracket.

With these we are going to impress him? May I speak from past personal experience? From the experience of one who looks at the above mentioned institutions through the eyes of an offender? "In the first place, you are all rich! and that alienates me immediately. Secondly, you all represent something that I, through past experience, have learned to resent. Thirdly, you don't have my respect because you haven't shown me that you deserve any."

And so, Luther, we point out that we are going to band together and impress him collectively, when in reality, we may be doing nothing more than displaying a collective ignorance, a collective ineptitude, or both. It might prove interesting to see which of us would end up being more impressed.

It was also suggested that even a fear of the law might be a solution. Speaking again from the point of an offender, what I fear I really fear, and stab it in the back I will when I perceive the first opportunity. However, it was suggested that the school might play some honorable role in this matter — a good suggestion. The tragedy of this point is that the system is too wound up in itself to be of any aid to the individual.

The offender is punished by making him stay after school; should the system not be such that real punishment would be that he must leave the school?

By nature, Americans are people belligerent to authority; our whole history has shown this from the time of settlement to the present day. I think one rather ominous fact looms before us: the law will have respect only when it deserves respect. We must hear more than just the creakings of unloiled machinery. What respect can the law have (or those who make it, or even those who enforce it) when an ordinance is passed and then a community's activities are so planned as to negate the effect of that ordinance?

It was pointed out that (1) Menominee County has no representatives at Boys Vocational School, and that (2) that same county has a much greater "coincidence of adult arrests." I should not like to suggest that Delta County is so short sighted as to not see the obvious relationship between the lack of one factor and the occurrence of another. Can it logically be contributed to "mere coincidence?"

Mr. Worth, if you will recall, repeatedly asked the question "Why?" and it was probably the most appropriate question asked during the course of the evening. The answer that he was repeatedly given was "I don't know." Might I again suggest that (1) there might be some kind of respect for the law in Menominee County. What one of us would suggest that a neighboring county is operating a police state. (2) If Delta County does not know why, then it might be while to contact the officials of Menominee County and ask why.

This, it would seem to me, would be a proper beginning. Charles L. Tooman Bay de Noc Community College

Democratic History

By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON — (NEA) — If recent utterances are any measure, some of this country's liberals — rather than President Johnson — seem bent on occupying Credibility Gap.

Not long ago, Theodore Sorensen, former aide to John F. Kennedy, mistreated history as it pertains to vice presidents. Now economist John Kenneth Galbraith, new head of Americans for Democratic Action, is putting in his bid.

He says the Vietnam war could lead to the "death and burial" of the Democratic party. In support, he contends that war always has spelled trouble for the Democrats, citing presidential or congressional triumphs for the Republicans in the postwar or mid-war elections of 1920, 1946 and 1952.

Galbraith forecast that the Vietnam war would be even more disastrous for the Democrats if it is still on in 1968. His prediction will be tested by events. His "history" can be checked now.

There is no question that Republican Warren Harding's presidential victory in 1920 reflected in considerable part U. S. voters' weariness with the sacrifices and inconveniences of World War I — ended two years before. Harding's "normalcy" had great appeal.

But it cannot be forgotten that the wartime Democratic president, Woodrow Wilson, was one of two exceptions (Grover Cleveland the other) in what turned out to be 75 years of GOP presidential ascendancy. Wilson would not have won the first time in 1912 without a split Republican vote, and he narrowly scraped through in 1916.

Something of the same war weariness and revulsion showed itself in 1946, a year after World War II ended, when the GOP slogan, "Had Enough?", symbolized a host of discontents with controls, shortages, confusion and corruption. Republicans gained 56 House seats, 13 in the Senate, three governorships.

But this was no Democratic burial. Two years later, President Harry Truman won the presidency by 2 million votes while his party gained 75 House seats, nine in the Senate, seven governorships. Truman managed his triumph despite 2.3 million votes for Progressive Henry A. Wallace and Dixiecrat Strom Thurmond.

Truman was still president, though not a candidate for reelection, when the Korean war made its undoubtedly heavy impact upon the 1952 test between Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

No other issue matched it — but there were others, including inflation, high taxes, charges of internal communism, Eisenhower's status as a war hero.

The important thing to be said about 1952, however, is that the widespread unhappiness over the war related chiefly to the fact that it was stalemated and seemed to be "getting nowhere," as voters said.

If Galbraith here would rush in to say, "Yes, just as in Vietnam today," he would be too hasty. For the stalemate complained of was taking place during truce negotiations of the very sort the U. S. liberal fraternity sees as the "way out" in Vietnam.

By voting day in 1952, those talks had gone on for 16 months without a final settlement. Men meantime were fighting and dying as if no truce existed. Of the 157,000 U. S. casualties in the Korean war, 78,000 — almost exactly half — occurred in fighting while we were negotiating with the Communists from July, 1951, to July, 1953.

Red China and North Korea initiated that fighting. Captured Viet Cong documents indicate Hanoi also views "negotiating" as a war combat tactic to be conducted while fighting continues.

Opinion samplers in 1952 found it was the pointless "trading of hills" kind of fighting while negotiating which most upset voters. Neither then, nor in 1946 or 1920, were Democrats beaten by people who "opposed the war" as liberals today oppose the war in Vietnam.

Jim: "How about a series of all sorts of bridge hands this week instead of concentrating on one subject?"

Oswald: "Fine. I have one here that was played at rubber bridge in the Bahamas this winter. West was John Crawford who still plays bridge as well as anyone in the world. Even the best are fixed occasionally and this time Herbert (Buzz) Scheffel of New York made five hearts against him by means of planning an end play at trick one."

Jim: "Let's see if I can work out the play. I assume that South ducked the first spade."

Oswald: "He did! At this point Crawford could have beaten the hand by leading with the ace of clubs or a low club but that play would require knowledge of the location of all the cards. If Johnny did shift it would surely have been to a diamond. Anyway, East had played a high spade to ask for a spade continuation."

Jim: "It looks as if Crawford's spade continuation gave South a pretty good blueprint of the East-West hands. Obviously Crawford did not hold both ace and king of clubs but he would have a six-card suit for his three-club bid. That left East with a singleton ace or king. It was a ready made end play."

Oswald: "Exactly. South took his spade ace, led a diamond to dummy's ace, ruffed the last spade high, cashed dummy's ace and king of trumps and king of diamonds, ruffed dummy's last diamond and led a club."

Jim: "There is one very interesting feature of the play. It was necessary for South to duck the first spade. Otherwise East would have been able to get out of the eventual end play."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Officials at the Philadelphia Museum of Art say they have a rule that only museum employees can "handle our own works of art" so a 13-foot nude statue of Diana the huntress couldn't get fitted for a miniskirt.

Officials of a fashion show had wanted to drape Diana in a gold tunic as part of the exhibit of new materials used in women's clothes.

Guy In Doll Clothes Normal; He Says So

Dear Readers: I'm shook. Recently I printed a letter from a Dallas golfer who wrote to say he wore his wife's girdle because it relieved his aching back and improved his posture. He added nonchalantly that he also wore his wife's nylon hose because he needed to hook the garters to something to keep his girdle down.

Shortly after that letter appeared I heard from another man whose luggage had been lost and he had no underwear. His wife gave him a pair of her bloomers, "just for the night." He liked them so well he never did go back to wearing shorts. That was in 1945 and he has been wearing ladies' bloomers ever since.

This past week I have received an avalanche of letters from virtually every state in the union. The mail attests to the fact that a startling number of men (most of them married and with families) thoroughly enjoy dressing up in women's clothes. I assure you these people are not putting me on. They are strictly for real. Here are some samples:

Dear Ann Landers: Why do you point an accusing finger at any man who happens to prefer some article of women's clothing?

Some men enjoy a soft, smooth fabric next to their skin. Somewhere along the line men got stuck with cotton underwear. I can assure you if men's silk shorts were not so expensive they would outsell cotton shorts by the carload.

Shortly after I married, my wife was making a dress for herself. We are both the same height. She asked me to put on her dress so she could pin the hem properly. I liked the feel of the silk dress and asked her if she would make one for me to lounge in. Now I have several lounging dresses and they are much more comfortable than slacks and a T-shirt. I'm not a fairy and I resent the inference that any man who wears women's clothes is a little funny. — DYERSVILLE, IOWA.

Dear Dy: My haberdashery expert tells me cotton shorts are plenty soft enough for anybody and that most men prefer cotton shorts to the sleazier fabrics. I would not try to change the mind of a guy who sits around in his wife's dresses, however, so enjoy yourself, Bub.

Dear Ann Landers: Many men enjoy dressing up in women's clothing. I, for one, can tell you it's a real kick in the head. Here's how I discovered how much fun it could be.

Several years ago my wife and I went to a "Switch Sex Ball" at our Country Club. My wife wore our oldest son's suit. I wore one of her made-over evening dresses, her wig and white fox stole. My wife did my make-up (false eyelashes and the works), and she even painted my fingernails. I won first prize as the "Fooler Female."

I enjoyed the outfit so much I decided to wear it again several nights later when the two of us took a weekend vacation. We posed as two women friends and no one batted an eye.

Now I have several "Fooler" outfits and whenever we are out of town we have a few evenings as "women."

This may seem strange, but I assure you I am perfectly normal. These little masquerade parties are simply our way of having fun. — ALL MAN

Dear Man: Yup. You're all normal — all you guys who like to dress up in women's clothes. And if anyone says otherwise, just hit 'em with your purse, Dearie.

BARBS

By WALTER C. PARKES One of the delights of the spring landscape is the fact that those Christmas neckties have been given their duty-wearing and have disappeared with the snow.

Some colleagues today don't even pack a bag before taking a "trip."

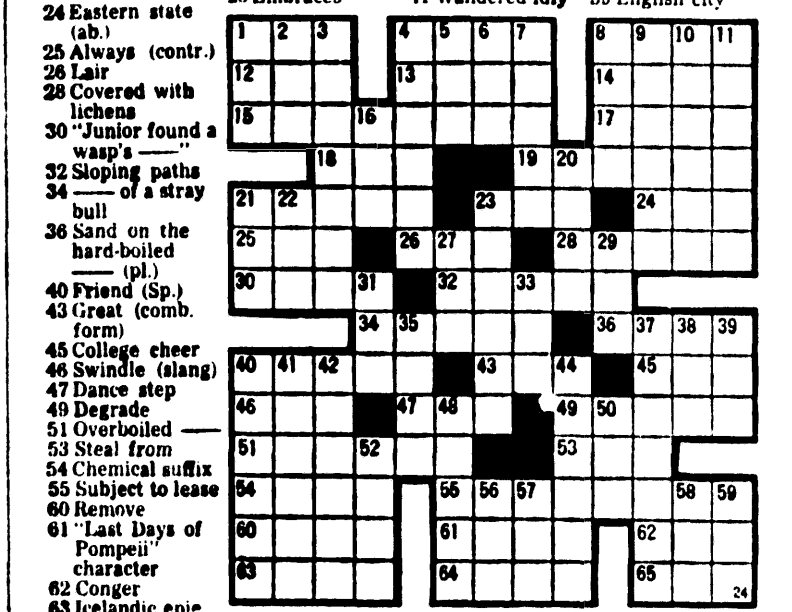

Many a car has been smashed because the driver was.

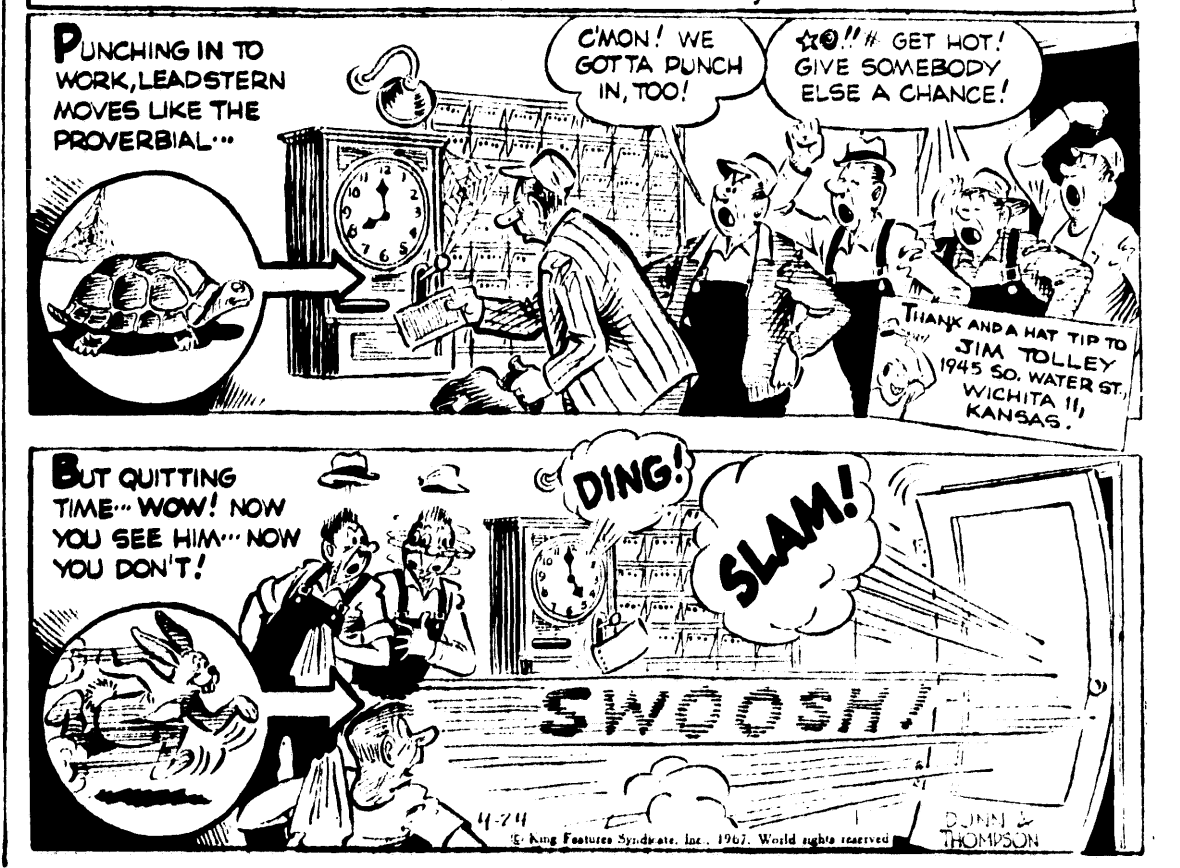

A woman's 35th birthday is really the only one that has many happy returns.

Soviet Scientist Urges Study Of 'Flying Saucers'

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet scientist says there may really be such things as flying saucers from outer space.

Soviet radar screens have detected unidentified flying objects — UFOs — for 20 years, he says.

But Soviet scientists, like their colleagues in the West, are still puzzled about what such UFOs really are.

The scientist, identified only as F. Zigel, was writing in the current issue of the illustrated Soviet youth magazine Cmena.

He offered five possible explanations for UFOs, including visitors from outer space. He called this alternative "extremely speculative."

"But," he added, "as the UFO problem has not yet been solved, different explanations, including extremes, are possible."

The article took the lid off a subject rarely discussed in the press here.

In the 1950s the Soviet press scoffed at American reports of flying saucers as just so much cold war propaganda.

By those Soviet accounts, the Americans tried to explain away the "saucers" as some sort of new, secret Soviet weapon.

UFO Ridiculed

Reports of flying saucers sighted in the Soviet Union, in the Caucasus and in Central Asia, also were ridiculed here.

In his magazine article, Zigel said the "angel echo," a UFO detected by radar, is constantly observed by scientists at the Central Aerological Observatory near Moscow.

Similar observations, he said, have been made in the United States, Australia, India and Japan.

"The phenomena of the UFO today should be considered as global," he added.

He rejected the idea that birds, insects or plant seeds could cause such reactions on radar screens.

Zigel said there could be no doubt that UFOs exist "but the nature of these objects is still not understandable today."

Then he listed these five possible explanations:

- 1. Nonsense or invention. He said there was some untruth here, citing reports of people who claimed to have ridden in flying saucers and others who threw hats in the air and then photographed "saucers." But he rejected this alternative as killing the question rather than solving it.
- 2. An optical illusion related to the distribution of light in the earth's atmosphere, such as a rainbow. The UFO, he said, is more complicated than that, however.
- 3. A new secret flying apparatus of one of the military powers on earth. "No one holds this view now," he said.
- 4. An unknown phenomena of nature, just as radioactivity was unknown until the end of the last century. In this context, ionized particles and charged particles of dust in the atmosphere were given as a possible explanation. But Zigel said, this does not explain the color or maneuverability of UFOs or their appearance in good weather.
- 5. Spaceships from an advanced civilization on another planet. Zigel said the speed of UFOs support this theory. So does what he called "the fact" that no UFOs were ever reliably reported to have landed.

Zigel called for "an all-sided, thorough, scientific exploration" to clear up the origin of UFOs once and for all.

Combat Surgeon Treats Elephant Hurt By Bullet

SAIGON, (AP) — Quick, doctor, bring your bag. My elephant has been shot.

Such was the message that came to Maj. Charles Lea of Columbia, Mo. The elephant, named Khon, belonged to a mountain tribesman named Hra.

The surgeon treats combat casualties of the Screaming Eagles, the men of the 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade. The 101st's civil affairs officer, Maj. Thomas Bligh of Douglaston, N.Y., thought he ought to treat the elephant, too.

Lea and Bligh found the elephant lying beneath a tree, a bullet in his left front leg.

Hra mounted Khon, and the elephant reluctantly rose. Lea approached "with great poise," a division account reported, while Bligh supervised from a distance of several feet, beyond the swing of the elephant's trunk.

Full House

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — When two robins were born in a nest outside a classroom window, Mrs. Robert Melvin's sixth graders at John S. Armstrong School sent birth announcements for "Mr. and Mrs. R. Redbreast" to all other classes. "We got a full house each visiting time," Mrs. Melvin said.

Safety Review Timetable Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal highway administration announced a timetable for review of a safety standard challenged by 27 domestic and foreign manufacturers of automobiles and equipment.

The series of steps outlined by Lowell K. Bridwell, the federal highway administrator, began May 1 and could result in a public hearing starting May 23.

Domestic auto manufacturers have already filed a court suit against the standard intended to lessen serious injury to occupants coming in contact with a car's interior following a crash.

That rule fixes minimum standards for such items as the instrument panel, seat backs, sun visors, arm rests, knobs and handles.

It is one of 20 which must be incorporated in all cars beginning next Jan. 1. The current review, however, could change the challenged standard.

Bridwell's order names Russell A. Potter as the presiding officer in the case and fixes this schedule:

May 1—Filing of briefs by manufacturers stating their positions and types of evidence they expect to offer.

May 4—A pre-hearing conference to define and simplify the issues.

May 12—Deadline for circulating copies of written testimony to all parties.

May 19—Deadline for circulating rebuttal testimony.

May 23—Start of a public hearing, if required.

Attorneys will be allowed 10 days after the close of the hearing to file briefs and their recommendations for action.

Potter will then submit his recommendation to Bridwell as soon as possible. Bridwell, at his discretion, may schedule oral arguments before he issues his final decision.

800 Write On 'War Is Hell'

HELL (AP) — More than 800 letters, including 100 from U.S. servicemen in Vietnam, have poured into this southeastern Michigan crossroads hamlet in response to a "War is Hell" contest.

"The response has been tremendous," said Mel Reinhard, president of the Hell Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the contest designed to find a solution to the war.

"We've had letters from every state in the union, South Africa and England," he said. "Most of them — I'd say 55 per cent — offer prayer as a solution to the war. Most of these were from women."

Reinhard said the next most prevalent suggestion was unifying the home front behind the war effort before seeking a permanent solution to the war.

Many letter writers, he said, urged an all out military campaign to end the war. One man suggested "one atom bomb" and several persons favored "putting all the politicians on the front lines."

Tornado Deaths Reach 53; Snow Slows Cleanup

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy, wet snowflakes fell amid the debris Sunday as residents of tornado-ravaged northern Illinois communities cleared the rubble, patched their homes and prepared to bury their dead.

The snowstorm, heaviest on record so late in the spring in Chicago, hampered cleanup operations in Oak Lawn, Belvidere and Lake Zurich. These areas were hardest hit by twisters that rampaged across the top of the state and into Michigan Friday.

Killing 53, injuring hundreds and causing damage estimated as high as $50 million, four inches of snow fell on hundreds of workers at Belvidere.

A spirit of optimism, tempered by sadness, prevailed. Hubert Kay stood in front of his ruined house and said: "The ones with dead, they're the ones. It took us 2½ years to

Congress Still Against Powell

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Negro congressman said today that unless Adam Clayton Powell returns to Washington soon to work in his own behalf, he has little chance of being seated in the House — regardless of what the courts decide.

"His best friends are urging that he return immediately and initiate some action," said Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., in a telephone interview from his home in Detroit.

Conyers, a member of the select House committee that found Powell guilty of "gross misconduct," said a majority of the House members still favor the March 1 action by which he was excluded.

"And the positions are hardening," he said.

The key vote leading to exclusion of the preacher-politician was 222 to 202. And, said Conyers, "unless he is present and contacting his friends and making it completely clear that he wants the seat and is willing to contact the members, there is no indication that there will be a change in votes."

The chairman of the select committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Sunday "the odds are against him (Powell) still."

Celler said it "would make a great deal of difference" if Powell mingled with his former colleagues and displayed "some degree of humility . . . some degree of humbleness" instead of his usual "swagger."

Violators Put On Probation

John L. Stenberg, 17, and Alan C. Salmon, 18, both of Rte. 1, Bark River, each were placed on probation for one year by Justice Ross Davis of Gladstone after their second convictions this month on Conservation charges of spearing northern pike out of season.

Fines and $50 and 30-day jail terms for both youths were suspended for the length of the probationary term, but Davis warned both boys if any of the conditions of the probation were broken he would require the fines be paid and the jail sentences served.

Hunting and fishing privileges for both boys were revoked for a year.

Conservation officers said Stenberg and Salmon were arrested April 10 and April 19. Each was fined $15 on the first offense. A juvenile involved will be cited to Probate Court.

William J. Clauson, 17, of 815 N. 15th St., Gladstone, was fined $20 and assessed $7.30 costs on a charge of taking northern pike with a spear out of season, and John J. Falkies, 20, of Rte. 1, Cornell, received the same fine and costs for taking walleye during a closed season.

Thomas D. Deragon, 23, of 129 1st Ave., S., Escanaba, paid a total of $10 fine and costs for taking smelt without a license. Joseph T. Migwambi, 38, of Wilson, paid $7.30 on the same charge. All pleaded guilty before Justice Davis.

Mrs. Despins Dies Sunday At Kenosha

Mrs. Myrtle Despins, a native of Escanaba, died in Kenosha, Wis., on Sunday. She had been ill for some time.

She was born Myrtle McMartin in Escanaba on Oct. 19, 1883, and attended the Franklin School and the Escanaba High School.

Surviving are two sons, Elmer of Racine and Edwin of Kenosha, several grandchildren, and one brother, Robert E. McMartin of Escanaba.

Funeral services will be held at Racine Wednesday afternoon, and will be attended by Mr. McMartin.

Reuther Plans No Pull-Out

DETROIT (AP)—Although he now holds unquestioned authority to do so, Walter P. Reuther has no plans to lead his 1.4 million United Auto Workers out of the AFL-CIO immediately.

Reuther says a walkout decision likely will await completion of the UAW's new contract bargaining with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler in the fall.

Meanwhile, he says he is hopeful the AFL-CIO will adopt the UAW's program to, in Reuther's words, "get the labor movement on the march once again."

Some 3,000 delegates to a special UAW convention voted overwhelmingly last week to authorize the UAW's 22-member international executive board, of which Reuther is the dominant member, to withdraw from the AFL-CIO, if and when it chooses.

The convention also adopted a "statement of principles, policies and programs" calling for, among other things, "internal reform and democratization of the AFL-CIO."

Tourist Group Lauds Norton

LANSING — The Michigan tourist industry can look forward to record summer business again this year, says Michigan Tourist Council chairman James H. Hall, Bay City. He said that requests for the Council's summer vacation-planning information are running more than 30 per cent ahead of the same period last year.

"A big bonus for Michigan will be the large number of persons vacationing in Michigan enroute to Expo 67 in Montreal. Inquiries from these people have exceeded expectations," said Hall.

The Tourist Council met here April 20-21 to review spring-summer advertising results and receive a report on production of its new film to promote advantages of Michigan winter vacations, to be released this summer.

The Council passed a resolution commending R. J. Norton and John Thorin of Escanaba for establishing a new commercial air service between the Upper Peninsula and a number of Lower Michigan cities.

The new service, Peninsula Air Transport Co., will help meet the demands of modern travel with in U.P. and between the two peninsulas, the Council said.

Landing Mishap Fatal As Chute Lines Tangle

said she was told about the launching by another cosmonaut, Pavel Popovich, who called from the space center.

After announcing earlier in the day that the new spaceship was functioning normally and that Komarov felt well, Tass news agency made no further disclosures. Soviet newscasts also were silent on the new space venture.

Expected Linkup

Soviet officials gave no clues to the tests Komarov, 40, was performing, details of his spacecraft Soyuz (Union) 1, and the mission of the flight.

A second launching had been widely predicted in unconfirmed reports. These reports said a second manned spacecraft would be put up to rendezvous and link up with Soyuz 1 in the first step toward an orbiting space platform. Such a platform would eventually be used to fire a manned rocket toward the moon.

Speculation began immediately that something had happened to prevent the reported plans from being carried out. Observers here considered it possible that a second launching would still take place, but later.

There was also speculation that Soyuz 1 was simply a test flight of the new ship and it would be brought down soon without any spectacular maneuvers with another spaceship.

K. Of C. Honors Clergy Tonight

Robert Bink, chairman for the evening will be toastmaster. The clergy and members of Council 640 will hear vocal selections from the musical, "Guys and Dolls," by Holy Name music students.

Faith In People Is GOP Theme

LANSING (AP) — If Michigan Republicans are taking Gov. George Romney's advice, they are out today looking for a way to help their fellow man.

Romney and a host of nationally prominent Republicans have urged GOP members to "get out and mix with people" and to prove that they belong to the party that cares about people.

The Michigan GOP's "grass roots involvement program" was boosted by Romney and the other party officials Saturday in speeches before about 200 county chairmen and other party leaders.

Romney said the program is aimed at attracting voluntary help from party members—help to solve problems ranging from urban renewal to crime.

Accident Suit Starts In Court

Testimony in the civil suit of Lucille Dishno of Escanaba against Film Service Inc., of Milwaukee, began this morning before Judge Bernard H. Davidson in Delta County Circuit Court.

The action asks $35,000 for injuries she suffered when the car in which she was riding struck the rear of a Film Service truck parked on S. 23rd St. The suit claims the truck was parked illegally when the accident happened at 2:50 p.m. on May 20, 1964.

The competition is sponsored by AMVETS and Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division. There were some 50 in the Michigan competition.

Studying Costs:

C&NW Rail Yard Removal Feasible

Cooperating with the City of Escanaba in the community's planning effort toward a downtown redevelopment, the Chicago & North Western Railway has a rail yard removal study under way, it is reported by City Manager George Harvey.

From the standpoint of the Railway the removal is feasible, but there is the element of cost which has yet to be determined.

The city manager has advised the City Council that the city is in receipt of a letter to this effect from L. Robert Ballin, the North Western's vice president-real estate.

Facilities Changing
The field work regarding the removal of the North Western yard facilities has been completed and the result is "that they have found that the project can be feasible from a railway company standpoint," Harvey reports.

"The Company is now evaluating all the factors of cost which are involved in such a relocation, and this should be completed within the next few weeks," Harvey said.

"One of the problems that they are having is the new plan for ore handling, which should be integrated with the relocation if both projects move ahead. They are trying to make it possible for the relocation to be implemented in such a way that, if the money were to be made available, it would not require a second move when the ore handling facilities are modified."

Harvey advised the City Council that as soon as the final cost figures are available the city will be informed.

Matter Of Cost

The North Western promised its cooperation in December last year, when Ballin's attention was directed to the fact that the railroad yards and facilities occupy what is considered to be a key portion of the urban renewal area.

To be successful, the railroad facilities would have to be relocated in the area from N. 10th St. to 3rd St., which is on the north side of the urban renewal area.

At that time Ballin warned that such a relocation would have to be found feasible and that the North Western would have to know "what kind of cost would be incurred by the Urban Development Authority in order to effect this relocation."

Adventists List Future Events

John Erhard, pastor of the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church and district leader of the Upper Peninsula Adventist Churches made the following announcements of coming events:

The Dorcas Ladies will meet on Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. to process and pack used clothing for shipment to disaster areas.

Prayer meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. There will be a study on "Counsels on Stewardship."

A talent show will be held at the Wilson Adventist Church on May 6.

Clothing Fires Endanger Old People, Children

By Dr. Albert E. Heustis
Michigan Health Department

Two dolls dressed in cotton flannel nightgowns were held so the gown hems were over a candle flame. One gown ignited almost instantly and the flames enveloped more than half of the doll in 10 seconds. The other nightgown burned only when held directly in the candle flame, and went out as soon as it was removed. The two cotton gowns were identical except that one had been treated for flame resistance.

Most of us take it for granted that the stores couldn't sell it if it wasn't safe — when as a matter of fact the laws cover only the most flammable and extreme kinds of clothing fire hazards. It's up to you to protect yourself and your family against the many flammable fabrics which are available. Even cotton, for example which is our most common fabric for clothing, burns readily, especially in its flimsier weights, looser weaves, and fuzzier textures.

Records indicate that children and old people are the persons most often injured or killed by clothing fires — probably because they are the least able to cope with the situation physically and mentally. Over 230 people lost their lives by fire in Michigan in 1965, and 77 of them children.

Remind the members of your family that ordinary cotton cloth burns quite well, and so does rayon, silk, acetate, and many other natural and synthetic fibers. A lot depends on the weight, the weave, and the texture of the material.

Cotton and other fabrics that have been treated for flame retardancy should be requested when purchasing clothing for your family's children and old people . . . especially night clothing. Only a few manufacturers employ flame-retarded fabric in the clothing items they make, but these items are so labeled.

SAVE ON DRAPES

By Ann McGovern

The only protection is to clean them thoroughly and completely. NOW.

When were your drapes cleaned last? Was it more than 6 months ago? Prior to February or January of this year?

Then they need cleaning the worst way. Believe me, whether they seem fairly clean or not, if they've been up over 3 or 4 months, then they've accumulated enough soil and dust, cigarette smoke, odors and what not to be in peril of their fabric life.

Soil, dust, soot, grime—these things are chemical substances which (with the aid of heat, humidity, sunlight, and oxygen) progressively destroy fabric fibers.

NOW . . . NU-WAY puts a real "Decorator Fold" in your drapes (like paid professional decorators do) to give them proper, natural hanging qualities and to make them more beautiful.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: On two occasions the drain from our washing machine bubbled over and soaked the asphalt tile floor. The floor is a mottled white mess. We have tried everything.

Is there any way to bring the original color back to the flooring outside of slapping on two coats of deck paint or replacing the tile?

Mr. Robert Hamill

Dear Robert: I feel sure I have the easy answer for you. Try using some of your wife's vegetable oil. (That's the liquid stuff she mixes with her salad when making dressing. Remember?) DON'T put this on your whole floor. ONLY where the discoloration is.

You cannot do it in two minutes.

Pour some vegetable oil on an old rag and rub only where the white spots are. Rub it hard and vigorously for about three minutes.

The original color should come back to your floor. I have tested vegetable oil on six kinds of tile and most of the color did come back on all of them.

It may take more than one application. If the color does not come back within three hours, put on a second application.

As soon as your original color does return, wash the spots with a mild soap and water. Then

Dear Heloise: To store such things as birth certificates, college degrees, etc. . . . I save the cardboard tubes from wax paper and paper towels.

I roll the certificates around the tubes and secure them with a rubber band.

They can be put in any drawer and do not take up much room. And the papers never get rumpled.

H.D.S.

Why not put them inside the cardboard? No rubber band needed and you could cover it all with foil or plastic to prevent deterioration.

Dear Heloise:

I use a canvas cloth for rolling out cookies, and pie crusts. Each time I'm finished using it I put the canvas in a plastic bag and stored in my refrigerator.

This way I find that I do not have to wash it each time. It keeps cold and thus eliminates the "breakdown" of the shortening.

Dear Heloise:

For mothers who have all those bumper pads left over from the crib:

They make excellent little pads for around the back of the high chair and stroller. Since they have ties, you can tie them in place. They are made of plastic and can be washed often.

It certainly helps hold those little fellows up so they aren't sagging and slipping.

Yank Relief Stars Trouble For Bosox

By The Associated Press

Success will never spoil the Boston Red Sox. Not with Elston Howard and Al Downing around to divide the job.

The New York batterymen sparked in relief roles Sunday — Howard with a decisive pinch-hit double and Downing with a near-perfect pitching performance — as the Yankees came from behind to stun the Red Sox 7-5.

Howard, whose two-out single in the ninth inning ruined Boston's bid for a fifth straight win, capped a five-run go-ahead rally in the fifth with his two-run double — the Yankees' first extra-base hit in seven games.

Downing came out of the bullpen with New York trailing 5-1 in the fourth and allowed just one hit the rest of the way for his second victory in two relief appearances — both against Boston. The little left-hander blanked the Red Sox over the final five innings in last Sunday's 18-inning marathon, won by the Yankees 7-6.

"He may be ready to put everything together," Manager Ralph Houk said of the 25-year-old strikeout artist who appears to be rebounding from two straight losing seasons. Downing fanned seven Boston hitters Sunday.

In other American League action, California moved into first place by sweeping a doubleheader from Cleveland, 9-6 in 12 innings and 2-1; Baltimore split a twin bill with Kansas City, winning the opener 5-2 before bowing 8-7; Minnesota topped Detroit 4-2 and Washington whipped Chicago 5-1.

Philadelphia swept the New York Mets 10-6 and 3-1, Los Angeles slugged St. Louis 9-3, Cincinnati downed Houston 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs tripped Pittsburgh 7-3 in National League play. Atlanta's scheduled doubleheader at San Francisco was rained out.

Boston's four-run lead over the Yankees began to disappear in the fifth when right-hander Darrell Brandon walked Tom Tresh and Mickey Mantle gave up a bases-filling single to Joe Pepitone and wild-pitched a run across.

Steve Whitaker's sacrifice fly delivered another run and when Brandon walked Charlie Smith he was replaced by Jose Santiago. Jake Gibbs' single sent the third run home before Howard, who had come through with a shutout-breaking single off Rohr in the Red Sox 6-1 victory Saturday, looped a double in to right center.

The two-base hit, which snapped an extra-base famine

Tiger Tales

DETROIT (AP)—Tigers Notes and Quotes:

The weather remained cold in Detroit for Sunday's game with the Minnesota Twins and most of the players complained about it.

"I'm not a cold weather ball player," Jim Northrup grumbled. "I can't get loose when it's 32 degrees out and a gale of wind blowing."

"I don't know why they play this game so early," said Dick McAuliffe. "It's always cold."

"It isn't the best day in the world to play, that's for sure," said Manager Mayo Smith.

Norm Cash didn't mind the wind, however. "The wind helped me on that homer. I didn't hit it good at all. I hit underneath the ball too much. It had a good spin on it and the wind just carried it. On an ordinary day it wouldn't have made it."

Cash was hit on the left ankle by a shot from Rod Carew in the eighth inning.

Cash said "It hurt some, but it's all right now."

Al Kaline hit safely in his 10th consecutive game Sunday, but he shrugged it off.

He said "Come back and see me when it gets to 56". Joe DiMaggio hit safely in a record 36 games in 1941.

Whitworth Sets Tournament Pace

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Tall Kathy Whitworth fired a one-under-par 71 Sunday to win the Raleigh Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament.

Miss Whitworth, who started the final round tied with Susie Maxwell, wound up with a 54-hole total of 215. Miss Maxwell finished with 220 to take second place.

Jo Ann Prentice came in third with 221. She pulled within three shots of Miss Whitworth after the first nine but bogeyed four of the last five holes to post a 75 final round.

of 67 2-3 innings for the one-time Bombers, gave Downing a 6-5 lead. Gibbs' sacrifice fly in the eighth produced an insurance run the new relief ace hardly needed.

The Angels completed their sweep at Cleveland with an unearned run in the ninth inning of the nightcap, pinch runner Marcelino Lopez scoring on third baseman Max Alvis' wild throw to the plate. Reliever Jack Kralick was charged with the loss, his second setback of the afternoon.

Kralick departed with the score tied 6-6, two on and one out in the 12th inning of the opener. Bobby Knoop, Jose Cardenal and Paul Schaaf then raked Dick Radatz for run-scoring singles. Jimmie Hall had singled home the tying run for California in the seventh.

Successful homers by the Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, paced the Orioles to their first-game victory over Kansas City. Steve Barber was the winner, with relief help from Moe Drabowsky and Stu Miller.

Pitcher Jack Aker's run-scoring single off Miller climaxed a four-run KC rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap that wiped out a 7-4 Oriole edge.

Frank Robinson hit his second homer of the two bill for Baltimore.

Zoilo Versalles lashed a two-run triple in the ninth, lifting the Twins past Detroit after Norm Cash's homer had pulled the Tigers even in the eighth. Walt Bond rapped a two-run pinch homer for Minnesota in the top of the eighth.

Washington's Barry Moore checked the White Sox on seven hits, blanking them until the ninth, and helped himself with a single and sacrifice fly. Bernie Allen's first-inning homer sent the Senators in front to stay.

Toronto Halts Canadian String

MONTREAL (AP) — Their long unbeaten string finally snapped, the Montreal Canadiens hope to bounce back against the Toronto Maple Leafs in the third game of their Stanley Cup playoff series Tuesday at Toronto.

The final, best-of-7 series was tied at 1-1 Saturday when goalie Johnny Bower blanked the streaking Canadiens 3-0.

It was Montreal's first loss since March 8, ending an unbeaten string of 16 games and a winning streak of 11, which included five Stanley Cup games. The Canadiens swept their semifinal series against New York in four games.

Bower kicked out 31 shots and the Leafs poured 43 at Rogatien Vachon. Montreal's 21-year-old rookie goalie.

But Punch Imlach, Toronto's manager-coach, called his club's ability to kill penalties the key to Saturday's victory. They were a man short five times during the game but held the Canadiens.

KANSAS UNIVERSITY's great Miller, Jim Ryun, hits the tape with a new Relays record in the mile run to meet an almost solid wall of photographers. Ryun's time was 3:54.7, beating the record he set last year in the Relays at Lawrence, Kan. (AP Wirephoto)

Nervous Ryun Right On Schedule In Training For 3:50 Mile Effort

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Running marvel Jim Ryun, admitting to a case of pre-meet nerves, proved to himself Saturday he's right on schedule in his quest of a 3:50 mile by producing an intercollegiate record 3:54.7 at the 42nd Kansas Relays.

"The only reason I felt a little sick was nerves, from all the speculation about a record," Ryun said. "I didn't sleep well."

Ryun stated beforehand he had no thoughts of nearing his world mark of 3:51.3, that the race was an experiment to determine where he was in his training. But rumors about what the incredible Kansas sophomore is shooting for spring up like dandelions at every meet he competes in.

The tall, slim Sullivan Award winner will celebrate his 20th birthday at the Drake Relays Saturday by returning to double-duty relay work. He was well rested for his Glenn Cunningham mile effort.

It was perhaps a measure of Ryun's stature in track that he was an overwhelming choice for the Don Pierce Award as most outstanding athlete of a meet which produced several tremendous performances.

Jim Hines, leader of Texas Southern's group of gifted sprinters, was good enough to win the award at almost any other KU Relays. So was Fred Burton, 16-7 pole vaulter who just missed 17 feet. So was Steve Herndon of Missouri with a 7-foot high jump. Or how about Conley Brown of Rice?

All Brown did was lead Rice to a second straight triple slam in the university 440, half-mile and mile relays, climaxing with a 45.7 quarter for a meet record 3:06.6.

Hines tied the 37-year-old meet 100 record with a 9.4 and anchored a 40 flat 440 relay and 1:22.8 880 relay.

Only the world marks of 39.6 and 1:22.6 escaped Hines & Co. and they had equaled the world 440 mark a week earlier. Hines also ran a 46.9 quarter on the sprint medley team Friday. But Ryun returned for a 47.0 mile relay carry.

Another standout was Oklahoma State's Chris McCubbins, with a meet record 8:46.6 in the 3,000 meter steeplechase, 4.6 off the collegiate mark.

Ryun's 3:54.7 was one of 10 meet records set in the three-day meet. Two were tied.

Ryun's time was the 12th-fastest mile on record, but this hardly puts it in the ho-hum class. For one thing, it was the best ever so early in the season. For other, he ran alone the last half.

Warriors Spoil Philadelphia's Champagne Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Tom Merschery was warming up before the fifth game of the National Basketball Association championship series Sunday between the Philadelphia 76ers and the San Francisco Warriors.

He spotted a big sign reading: 76ers, World Champions.

The five-year Warrior veteran exclaimed to no one in particular, "We're going to spoil their champagne party."

The Warriors, fired by the determined Merschery, rallied from a 13-point deficit in the final period to beat the 76ers 117-109 and extend the best-of-seven series to at least a sixth game in San Francisco tonight.

It was the first time the Warriors have won here since March 16, 1965.

Philadelphia led 96-84 as the final quarter began. Chet Walker, who led the Eastern champions with 25 points, converted a free throw and the Warriors trailed by 13.

It looked all over but the drinking of the champagne, then on ice in the 76ers' dressing room.

But Merschery, who had scored but six points in the first three quarters, reeled off seven straight points. Nate Thurmond, the 6-foot-11 San Francisco center, added three more and it was 97-94.

Hal Greer and Walt Chamberlain scored for Philadelphia to make it 101-94, but Merschery hit for two baskets and Jim King added a field goal to slash the 76ers' lead to one point.

San Francisco finally tied it at 102 on a long one-hander by Rick Barry, who led the Warriors with 36 points.

Luke Kerschner fouled Thurmond and Greer protested so vehemently he was tagged with a technical foul. Barry made the technical and Thurmond sank one of his two free throws to give San Francisco a lead it never relinquished.

The Warriors outscored a shaken Philadelphia team 10-4 in the final two minutes.

Bucs Happy To Get Out Of Chicago

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pirates discovered that Chicago left them cold and are happily leaving town a little ahead of schedule, no doubt relieved that neither the Cubs nor the Mets appear on their schedule for a while.

In their first nine games, the Pirates, everybody's preseason favorites to win the National League pennant, have faced only New York and Chicago, the tailenders last season.

But the Mets and Cubs have combined to win five games and lose only three to Pittsburgh, Sunday's 7-3 Chicago victory being the latest in the series.

The Pirates were supposed to play the Cubs again today, but the Cub management, perhaps out of kindness, came up with possibly the earliest postponement in baseball history, calling the game in the seventh inning Sunday because of snow forecast for today.

Sunday's game was played in 37-degree weather and rookie Norm Gigon's homer accounted for three Chicago runs. The Cubs scored four unearned runs in the fourth inning, with Adolfo Phillips singling home two of them.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia won a pair from New York 10-6 and 3-1, Cincinnati took Houston 5-3, Los Angeles bombed St. Louis 9-3 and a doubleheader between Atlanta and San Francisco was rained out.

In the American League, New York beat Boston 7-5, Minnesota took Detroit 4-2, Washington overcame Chicago 5-1, Baltimore split a doubleheader with Kansas City, winning 5-2 before losing 8-7, and California swept a pair from Cleveland, 9-6 in 12 innings and 2-1.

Donn Clendenon and Roberto Clemente hit homers for the Pirates, but Cub starter Ferguson Jenkins settled down to his second victory, striking out 10. The Pirates now move on to a series with front-running Philadelphia and St. Louis, hoping to fare better than they did against the dormants.

victories and Dick Ellsworth gave just seven hits to the Mets in his first appearance of the season in the nightcap. Phil Linz' two-run double in the eighth inning of the first game put the Phils ahead for good.

Milt Pappas held off the Astros, though he needed late-inning help from Ted Abernathy. The Reds got five straight hits in the first before a man was put out, Deron Johnson's single driving in two runs. Ron Davis hit a three-run homer for Houston.

Ron Fairly drove in five runs for the Dodgers with a double and the club's first homer of the season. Claude Osteen kept the Cards in tow on 10 hits, picking up his second victory in three outings. Lou Brock continued his torrid hitting pace with three hits for the Cardinals.

The season's first track and field meet on the Escanaba High School oval will be staged Tuesday, starting at 3:30.

Competing in the triangular meet will be Escanaba, Gladstone and Manistique. Escanaba will be competing outdoors for the first time this spring. Gladstone defeated Manistique in dual action last Friday.

Tryouts Draw 70 Candidates

A last minute surge of registration pushed Saturday's field of Little League candidates past 70. Despite near freezing weather and occasional snow flurries managers processed 43 eager candidates.

Considering the playing conditions, Little League managers handling the tryouts were well pleased with the performances of the players at Saturday's tests. Tryouts will continue next Saturday at 9 a.m. at Royce Park with the 12 year olds reporting first. This age bracket includes all boys who will turn 12 before Aug. 1, 1967.

Triple In Ninth Inning Sends Tigers To Defeat

DETROIT (AP) — "I didn't touch it. It just missed the end of my glove," Jim Northrup said of the ninth-inning triple by Zoilo Versalles.

The blow to the left field corner of Tiger Stadium Sunday drove in two runs and gave the Minnesota Twins a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

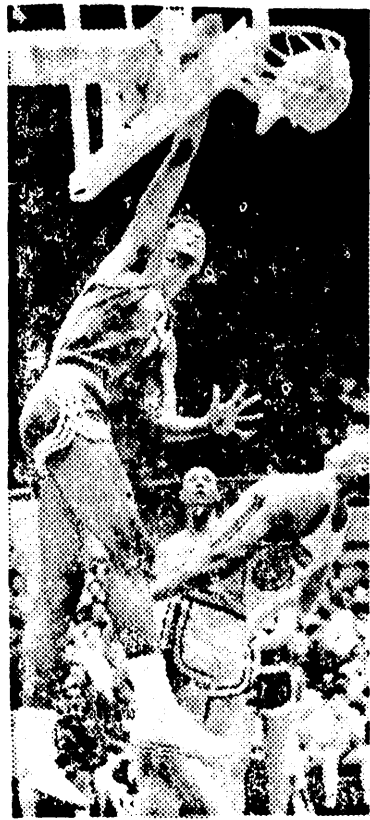

The score was tied 2-2 going into the ninth. Russ Nixon fled out Tony Oliva doubled and Tigers' pitcher Earl Wilson walked Harmon Killebrew intentionally. Bob Allison fired out and Versalles came to bat.

He cracked a liner to the left field corner and Northrup raced hard to his right.

"I couldn't reach it," Northrup said. It was only about four feet fair, hooking away from me."

Oliva and Killebrew raced home.

The Tigers went down in order in the ninth.</

DOMINANT FIGURE in college basketball for the next two years will be 7-1 Lew Alton of UCLA who led Bruins to national championship and an unbeaten season. Law is only a sophomore.

Dozen Starters Seem Likely In Kentucky Derby

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleanor Herrero of Puerto Rico, co-owner of Dawn Glory, considered the prospects of Damascus and Successor and decided:

"I want no part of them in the Kentucky Derby. My horse might get in the way."

"He's one whole of a horse," Herrero said of Damascus after he had scored a six-length victory in the $112,000 Wood Memorial at Aqueduct last Saturday.

"And there is another one whole of a horse down in Kentucky." That was a reference to Successor, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, who goes Thursday in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland in Lexington.

Dawn Glory, winner of Pimlico's Survivor Stakes, couldn't do better than third in the Wood. He was beaten nine lengths for the purse of $73,000. Galt Performance, the district runner-up, wasn't even nominated for the Derby by owner Alfred Vanderbilt.

Western Wins Seven Events

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A team from Western Michigan prevented noncontending teams from stealing the show Saturday in the first running of the Mid-American Conference relays.

The Broncos won seven events, a total matched by Penn State, in the 22-event meet that was opened up by three heat conference schools: Miami, Kent State and Ohio University athletes competed in the Ohio Relays at Columbus Saturday.

Eastern Michigan had three firsts and the University of Michigan's Bob Thomas broke a University of Toledo field record with his 177.5 discus mark. Western Michigan won the shuttle hurdles, 400 and freshman mile relays, and Mike Hazilla took the 3-mile run (14:17.5). Chuck Lemon won the steeplechase (9:29.6).

Eastern Michigan's victories came in the final fourth, with Jerry Cerullo's 14.5 effort in the mile, with Jerry Norman's 4:21.3 and the sprint medley freeman race.

Sports In Brief

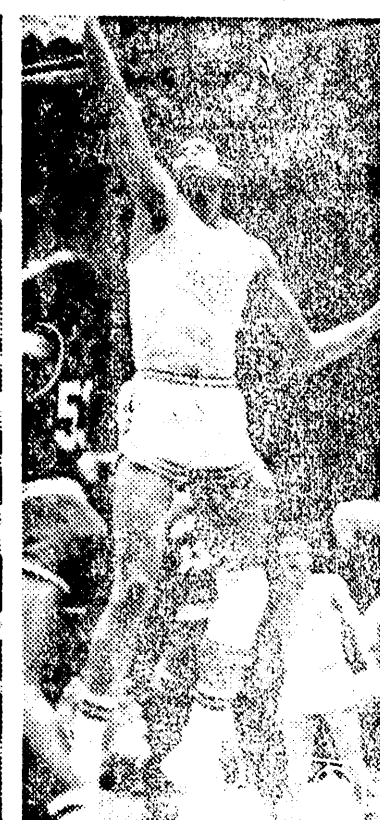

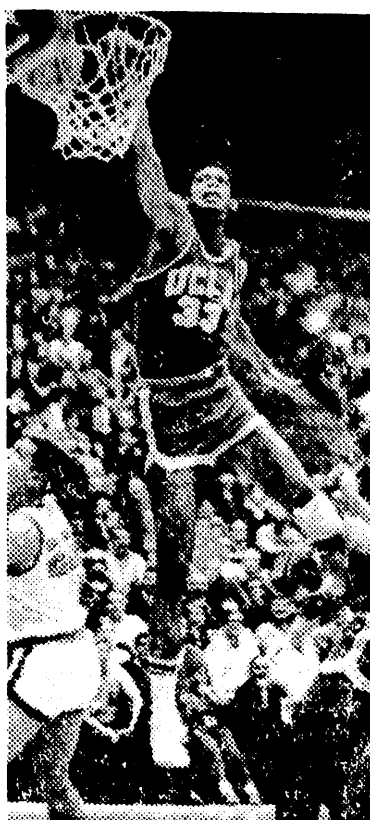

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Guy Wilton, 21, of England, won the Kenya Open Golf Championship Sunday with a 72-hole score of 279, four strokes better than Pete Thomson of Australia.

MILAN (Italy AP) — Going owned by the Aurora Stable of Italy, won the $21,000 Grand Steeplechase of Milan horse race Sunday.

NICE, France (AP) — Kathy Kusner of Arlington, Va., riding Abernethy, led the seventh in the National Stud Book Prize at the Nice Horse show Sunday.

AUTRICHIAN, England (AP) — Bobby Noble of Manchester United, one of England's top soccer stars, was listed in poor condition today after suffering head, leg and chest injuries in an automobile accident Sunday.

EAST LANSING (AP) — Daught Lee carried 24 times for 226 yards and five touchdowns as the MSU varsity football team reserved 51-6 in a football scrimmage Saturday. But Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty wasn't satisfied. "It was a spirited workout," he conceded, "but it proves one thing. Our strength in the line is so thin we can't even give ourselves good competition."

Bert Yancey Proves:

Putting Most Important Thing In Golf

DALLAS (AP) — Bert Yancey, with the idea that the most important thing in golf is to get the ball in the hole, fired a four-under-par 68 to take a one-stroke lead in the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open Tournament. Then he lectured on putting.

"A lot of players are afraid to try to be good putters," he told the press room Sunday after he had slammed into first place at 51 holes with 203-seven under par.

"They want to be known as hitters and neglect putting. I believe that since putting is the most important thing in golf, one should concentrate on that. I practice a lot."

Yancey had just teared the 6,777-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course in 26 putts and included 25, 50, 10 and 15-yard birdie putts in his collection.

Illustrating his observation that hitting the ball wasn't as important as most folks thought, he was spraying his tee shots and irons.

That caused bogeys on the first and ninth holes when he drove into the roughs. But his sensational putting made up for it.

"I look at the back of the ball to keep my head still," he explained.

Yancey, in his fourth year on the tour and winner of three tournaments, plus almost $100,000 in cash, led another ex-collegiate golfer, Kermit Zarley, formerly of the University of Houston, going in the final round today.

Yancey, however, hasn't won a tournament this year although he led the Masters for three months only to wind up third.

Zarley shot a 68 for 204 at 51 holes as he and Yancey moved past Roberto DeVicenzo of Argentina and such shock-makers as Gay Brewer, Bob Goalby and Bobby Nichols.

DeVicenzo led the tournament at 36 holes with 134 but slumped to a three-over-par 73 Sunday, for fifth at 206 as Bob Charles, the New Zealander, who had Sunday's best round — a 65 — and Doug Sanders, who managed a 67 although playing with an up-set stomach.

The 6,777-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course was in perfect shape in a bright sun dried it out from the heavy rains that had poured over the area.

Only 10 players, however, were in the final round, two strokes off the pace. The rest had retired.

Stead posted a 68 Sunday and along with Goalby, scored two strokes off the pace. The rest had retired.

Wisconsin scored 82½ points to 53 for runner-up Hillsdale. Ferris was third with 41½, followed by Calvin 34, Illinois-Chicago 29, Northern Michigan 20½, Ohio Northern 13, Spring Arbor 9½ and Lake Superior State 2.

HOW THE CENTER OF MICHIGAN government is growing is clear in this new aerial photo looking west over the Capitol Complex in Lansing. A will house the Revenue Department, B will be a seven-story Administrative Division office, and C will be Department of State Highways headquarters. Lansing's Civic Center may become temporary quarters for the State Legislature if the State Capitol (foreground) is torn down and rebuilt. E, the Stevens Mason Building now housing highway, conservation, and numerous small agencies will be available for other administrative services. On site F, the State Supreme Court and law library will be built. G is a privately-owned apartment house. Beneath A, B, C, and E is underground parking for 2,000 cars. Walnut and Pine Streets will be widened. Not shown is the Lewis Cass Building to the south (left). Other state building development is proposed on a large tract southwest of the city.

Breast Cancer Study Planned

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Cancer Foundation said recently it will conduct one of the world's largest studies of breast cancer by interviewing 20,000 families in southeastern Michigan this week.

The interviews will be in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe counties, the foundation said.

Dr. Michael J. Brennan, foundation president, said interviews will include questions aimed at revealing the roles heredity, diabetes and allergies play in breast cancer.

"Nothing of this dimension has been attempted before because only now do we have the techniques for analyzing data that can give us information to help in eliminating this disease," he said.

He said breast cancer kills 26,000 women each year.

The foundation has recruited 20,000 women volunteers to conduct the interviews Monday through Friday, Brennan said.

Dr. Johannes Clemmensen, director of Denmark's Cancer Registry, hailed the plans to make the study.

"Cancer can't be cured with statistics," he said. "But you'll never know how to cure it without statistics. There's no doubt this campaign will be useful."

Clemmensen was in Detroit to speak to newsmen about the project.

Bills To End Bounties Pend

By LEE SMITH

Five thousand ducks killed by pollution in Detroit River. Two bills pending in the Michigan Legislature to remove the bounty on coyotes and completely end a costly farce that has been tolerated in this state for more than a century.

These news items are encouraging signs of what is being accomplished to preserve outdoor values. The industry and governmental agencies are aware of the deadly evils of air and water pollution. There is a new awareness, across the nation, of what must be done in all of the "multiple use" phases of conservation.

Anyone with vivid memories of the so-called "good old days" of outdoor Michigan has abundant reason to be gratified by the present, and optimistic about the future.

At the turn of the century the general attitude toward all forms of wildlife was to kill on sight.

Drastic changes have come in recent years. Timber wolves, listed as a vanishing species, are now legally protected in Michigan. The black bear and the bobcat are listed as valuable game animals. The Conservation Commission has ordered permanent protection for the Canadian lynx, considered extinct in Michigan for half a century. Lynx have reappeared in the Upper Peninsula. Elsworth L. Harger, of the Cusino Wildlife Research Station, has numerous recent records of lynx above the Straits.

Confronted with the human population explosion, plus the speed up in transportation, conservation agencies are striving to improve public relations, and public cooperation, by what the professionals call "I and E" — Information and Education.

Progress is being made. Basic principles of fish and wildlife management are gaining acceptance. People are becoming aware that fish and game cannot be stock-piled. The necessity for deer-herd control, to prevent white-tails from exhausting their food resources, is recognized by a majority of sportsmen. The law violator can no longer rely on community approval.

A Michigan outdoor writer, Gordon Charles, was for four years chief of the Information and Education Section of the South Dakota Department of Game and is now on the editorial staff of Michigan Out-of-Doors, the magazine of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs. His expose of the bounty racket is published, with shocking photographs, by the National Audubon Society.

What Charles calls "senseless waste of wildlife" is financed by every American taxpayer. Federal tax money helps support the activities of 841 employees of the former Branch of Predator and Rodent Control — recently renamed the Division of Wildlife Services of the U. S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife.

After reviewing the heavy outlays of cash, the extermination of important species, the damage to land values, Charles says:

"Conservation education programs are needed to enlighten the biological illiterates who cling to the folklore that every carnivorous animal is a villain of the wildlife world and should be annihilated."

Uranium is never found in the pure state, but occurs chiefly in the ores pitchblende and carnotite.

Why do some stamps
stick better than others?

No, it's not the glue. The truth is that some stamps are better than others. They do a better job of giving people what they want. The proof is that more people save S & H Green Stamps than any other stamps. And it's been that way since 1896. Other stamps come — and go — but you know that S & H will still be redeeming America's most reliable, most valuable stamps in 1996. That's why the best stores choose S & H instead of some other stamps. And that's why S & H chose the best stores. We know they wouldn't play games with your thrifty shopping habits. So if you want the best stamps, stick with S & H Green Stamps. They'll stick by you . . . today . . . tomorrow . . . in 1996.
